Ride or Die Girl

Mr. Brok3n / Lyrics by Eric Wright

SINGLE

OCT 8, 2025

VERSE 1

Cool night air through the open glass,
 October fading, the moments pass—
 That brunette hair keeps catching light,
 In the glow of the dash, she's pure midnight—
 Leaves are falling, painting gold,
 The road's a story we've never told—
 Every glance feels like a sin,
 She catches me staring—smirks again.

CHORUS

Windows down, hearts in gear,
 Her laughter cuts through the atmosphere.—
 The night is ours, the world stands still,
 Two hearts running where time stands still.
 Every curve, every spark, every turn,—
 Her smile's the fire, I never learn.

VERSE 2

Her hoodie sleeves hide her rings,
 She's tapping time while the night wind sings.
 That grin of hers—yeah, I can't fake,
 It's the kind of look no heart can take.
 I fade between the lines we draw,—
 She laughs, and I forget it all.
 No plan, no place to be,
 Just the road, the night, and her next to me.

CHORUS

Windows down, hearts in gear,
 Her laughter cuts through the atmosphere.
 The night is ours, the world stands still,
 Two hearts running where time stands still.
 Every curve, every spark, every turn,
 Her smile's the fire, I never learn.

BRIDGE

The seasons change, the cold creeps in,
 But I feel alive beneath her grin.
 Her eyes say "stay," her touch says "drive,"
 In this fading fall, we come alive.
 And when she leans her head on me,
 The whole world fades to symmetry.

OUTRO

Wind in her hair, stars overhead,
 Every word she's ever said
 Still echoes soft beneath this world—
 Yeah... she's my ride or die girl.
